Payment Processing Schedule

The effective date for processing payments will always default to the next banking day. The effective date is the date the funds are debited from your bank account.

All debited funds are subject to a five business day hold to verify funds and insure account authorization. Upon the fifth business day, provided all funds have cleared, the funds are then transmitted to the receiving government agency.

It may take up to seven (7) business days from the effective date of the debit specified to be received by the state.
